BOYS STEAL FORTUNE.

Enter Home of Fayette County Farmer While Family is in Church and Take $1,600 in Cash

Frank Holiday, James McGill and George Beattie were arrested at an early hour this morning at their homes at Broad Fork by Squire W. C. Gerkey and his constable, Frank Smith, charged with the theft of $1,600 in cash from the home of Ernest Sauers, a German farmer of Dry Hill. The robbery was committed Sunday afternoon while the Sauers family were attending services at the German church at Morgan station. Holliday was arrested at one o'clock at the home of his mother at Broad Ford and Beattie and McGill were arrested at the home of young McGill's mother on Dry Hill at 4 o'clock. Separate trips were made with the prisoners to the Connellsville police station by the two officers. They were driven there by Sauers, who keenly felt the loss of his small fortune.

As soon as County Detective Alex McBeth was informed of the robbery this morning, he talked to the three prisoners in the Connellsville police station. He secured enough information to warrant a trip to Uniontown, where Willie and John Sauers, nephews of Ernest Sauers, were questioned by him. The two Sauers, who are between 15 and 17 years old, were brought up by Ernest Sauers after their father died. Since last spring, however, they had not made their home with their uncle, living in Uniontown. The Sauers boys knew of their uncle's wealth in cash and knew where he kept it. They had been accused by their uncle at one time of taking $20 from a roll kept in a bureau drawer. County Detective McBeth, when he left town this morning was of the opinion that the boys perhaps knew something of the robbery Sunday afternoon.

All of the boys denied implication to the robbery when they were arrested. Not a cent was found on any of them. Young Holliday for a time was an inmate of Morganza and has been arrested before for infractions of the law. McGill, is the son of Thomas McGill, who is not at present a resident of Dry Hill.

A BUSY WEEK.

Is Expected by Hotel Keepers at Connellsville and New Haven.

The hotel keepers of Connellsville and New Haven are anticipating a busy time next week, when the Centennial will be on in full blast. Most of the hostelries have already had nearly all their spare rooms engaged, and requests for accommodations are arriving on every mail. It is believed, however, that there will be sufficent accommodations for the many visitors who will flock into town during the celebration. Cots will be pressed into service, and all spare room will be utilized.

It is believed that the dining room hours will be changed during the four days, opening for dinner at 11 o'clock instead of 12, as is done now. There will be a great many persons who will desire meals at hotels, but who will not lodge there.

Notice.

All the local banks will be closed tomorrow, Wednesday, August 8th, at 11 a. m. on account of the Merchant's picnic.

LAST VICTIM IS BURIED.

Beside the body of the mother and little sister and brother, the remains of the fourth victim of the Pearce tragedy were laid to rest in the cemetery at old Miller's Run church yesterday afternoon Robert Pearce the three year-old son of Samuel D. Pearce whose family was murdered a little over a week ago, died Sunday ten minutes past noon, the little life having hung in the balance for almost one week. Of the family of five that eight days ago were happy and contented only the husband and father survives.

J. R. McCreight, one of the attorneys appointed by the court to defend Dempster, the murderer, visited the self confessed murderer in his cell in the jail yesterday. Mr. McCreight informed the prisoner, of the death of little Robert Pearce, but the news had no apparent effect on the negro. The attorney had a long talk with Dempster, and the latter told the same story that he has told ever since his arrest

Dempster spends most of the time in weeping and praying. He is illiterate being unable to read.

NO DEFINITE DECISION

Was Reached by Club Managers at their Meeting in Belle Vernon Last Evening.

The managers of the four remaining clubs of the Valley League held a meeting at Belle Vernon last evening, Monessen, Belle Vernon, Cal-Roscoe and Monongahela being represented. The question of filling the places of Fayette City and Charleroi who have dropped out was discussed and it was finally decided to continue this week with the four clubs named above. Another meeting has been called for Sunday when it will be definately decided whether or not two new towns will be admitted

W. A. Mitchener of Belle Vernon was elected treasurer of the League in place of S. C Todd of Charleroi. Very little other business of importance was transacted. The games scheduled for the rest of this week are today—Monongahela at California. Friday—Monessen at California.

Four or five of the surrounding towns including Donora and Brownsville are anxious to enter the league but in case two more clubs are not secured the season will be finished with the four that are left.

GIRL CONFESSES TO BURGLARY.

And Says she was Assisted by a Girl Pal Whom the Police have Located.

Ethel Funier, alias Lillie Miller, the sixteen year old Roscoe girl who was arrested on a charge of robbing the dry goods store of Kirk and Clark at Charleroi has confessed to having committed the burglary, and admits she was assisted by a girl pal. The latter has been located by the officials. Part of the stolen goods were recovered when the girl's home at Roscoe was searched. Ethel will be taken to Washington today and will have to appear in court.

TO BE WEDDED THIS EVENING

Miss Francis Strickler Will be United in Marriage to Dr. C. C. Mellenger of New Salem.

This evening at 7 o'clock, Miss Francis Strickler will become the bride of Dr. C C. Mellinger, of New Salem. The wedding ceremony will be performed by Rev. J. B. Smith, of the Christian church, at the home of Miss Strickler's sister, Mrs. J. D. Luce on Reed avenue. Immediate friends only will be present.

Following the ceremony, a wedding supper will be served. Tomorrow the happy couple will leave on an extended wedding tour.

Miss Strickler, who is one of Monessen's most popular young ladies, has been a teacher in the public schools here for the past several years. She has a host of acquaintances and friends among whom she is well liked.

Dr. Mellinger is well and favorably known in and about New Salem where he enjoys a large and prosperous practice. Upon returning from their honey moon they will go to housekeeping in New Salem.

THIEVES ATTACK AGED MAN.

McKeesport Grocer Has Desperate Battle With Three Strangers.

As Morris Arnowitz, a grocer of 934 Jerome street, of McKeesport, was closing his store at 9 o'clock last night, three strangers entered. Two engaged Arnowitz in conversation and the third slipped behind the counter.

Arnowitz started to capture the third men, but the other two joined in the melee. Hearing the fight, Jacob Arnowitz, a son appeared from a rear room.

A desperate battle ensued. Bottles and cans seized from shelves were used in beating the father and son. Both were severely injured before the trio fled, without taking anything.

BRIDGE GETTING ALONG NICELY.

The new bridge which is to connect Monessen and Lock 4 is being constructed with remarkable rapidity. The middle pier is being capped today and the one at the approach at Wireton is almost completed.

Considerable difficulty is being experienced in getting started on the pier at the waters edge at Lock 4 on account of the old Lock cribbing. Four cars of steel were received last week and the balance of the material will be coming from day to day. The structural steel work will be started about October 1. Should nothing serious come in the way the bridge will be ready for traffic by Jan. 1.

P. & L. E. FILTER PLANT.

Will Cleanse Water of the Yough for Boiler Use at Dickerson Run.

Work on the new P. & L. E. filtering plant at Dickerson Run is well under way, although it requires four more months to complete it. This will be a great saving to the Lake Erie company as the management have had much trouble with water the past few years.

The Yough river water which contains so much sulphur caused the engine boilers to rust and leak. The company has several of these plants between Pittsburg and Dickerson Run.

More Prizes Donated.

In addition to the list of prizes already published the following have been received by the amusement committee, to be awarded at the Merchant's picnic tomorrow: Jos. Safier, a cut glass berry dish; M. Janovitz, ladies hat; S. Miller, man's shirt; R. W. Beck, Brownie Camera.

WAS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Suffering With Broken Arm Sustained in Fall, Neves Lad was Taken to Pittsburg.

Little James Neves, aged 10 years, was taken to the Mercy hospital on the 1:14 train suffering with a broken arm. He will have to undergo an X Ray examination as the bone is badly splintered. The accident which will cause him the loss of the use of his arm for some time to come, occurred yesterday afternoon.

The boy was sitting in a window of his father's music store when he suddenly lost his balance and fell to the floor, a distance of about three feet. He alighted on his left elbow, breaking the arm in two places. He was immediately attended by two local physicians, who found upon examination that the bone had been snapped squarely off at the elbow joint and had also been broken about half way between the elbow and the shoulder. In the latter instance the bone had been badly shattered.

The injury was temporarily dressed and the father advised to take the lad to the hospital. The boy seems to be very unfortunate as about a year ago he was run over by a coal wagon and severely injured.

Shoots Step Daughter in Arm.

Because his stepdaughter Ella Keck, aged 21 years, a school teacher at Coalbrook a small town near Connellsville, would not leave the house when he ordered her to yesterday afternoon, Fred Myers is alleged to have shot her. The bullet passed through her arm. Miss Keck and a sister got possession of the revolver, and their stepfather boarded a car for Connellsville. He was arrested as he was coming out of a hardware store with another revolver and cartridges in his pocke

Now that Constable Watts intends purchasing a pair of bloodhounds, he is no doubt keeping his eye open for a "Little Evey" and a "Topsy."

In lieu of something better in the way of an "issue" the various candidates for the coming fall election might tell how they stand on the Peek-a-boo waist question.

One often hears "the man behind the gun" spoken of as the only ever, but it does seem that the poor, sweltering, swearing mortal "behind the lawn mower", these hot days, is more entitled to the credit.

That McKeesport man who lost a dollar on a wager that he could get a hankerchief out of the pocket of his wife's skirt in fifteen minutes should have engaged an architect on women's skirts to draw him a set of plans to go by.

Of all the wonders that ever were, Greensburg comes to the front with the greatest. A man and wife have lived together in that town forty years and neither has ever heard the other utter a cross word during that time. Both are deaf.

A Reed avenue man who never milked a cow in his life undertook to perform the operation the other night on a bovine he had just purchased "because it would be so nice to have milk from one's own cow." After he had pulled away for fifteen minutes and hadn't produced a drop of lacteal moisture, he gave it up as a bad job and sent half a mile for a reformed farmer to work the combination. The cow is now for sale.

An operation for appendicitis and one for a broken arm were performed on a Harrisburg man at the same time. Both were successful but it's a cinch he felt all cut up over the affair.

It is reported that a Rostraver man who was packing up for a trip to the mountains explained to his wife, as he packed away a mysterious bottle in his camping outfit, the awful dangers of sleeping on the ground where rattlesnakes are as thick as reported this season.

A Charleroi dressmaker has invented a gown which buttons up the back, and which can be hooked together with a button hook. There is no more pathetic sight than to see a woman humping and bending and straightening and "oh-dear-ing" in a mad attempt to get her waist buttoned while the door bell is furiously jangling.

MANSFIELD'S CAPILLARIS

A permanent cure for all Skin and Scalp diseases. Hundreds of thousands who have been cured by Capillaris are recommending it to suffering friends. Capillaris is beneficial to the Hair and Scalp. By using it one can keep the Scalp clean, cool and white, giving a perfect state of health and ensuring an abundance of luxuriant hair of natural color.

Chronic cases of Skin and Scalp diseases of five to forty years' standing, cured by Capillaris, prove, beyond all question of a doubt, that Capillaris has no equal for its wonderful curative qualities. Baby humors, terrible itching, bleeding, burning, torturing are invariably cured with less than one 50c bottle.

CONSCIENTIOUS ROGUES.

The Big and Formidable Sinners Are Gray of Soul, Not Black.

No paradox is it, but a demonstrable fact, that in a highly articulate society the gravest harms are inflicted not by the worst men, but by those with virtues enough to boost them into some color of vantage. The boss who sells out the town and delivers the poor over to filth, disease and the powers that prey owes his chance to his engaging good fellowship and big heartedness. Some of the most dazzling careers of fraud have behind them long and reassuring records of probity, which have served to bait the trap of villainy.

Not that these decoy virtues are counterfeit. They are, in fact, so genuine that often the stalwart sinner perseveres in the virtue that has lifted him into the high places he abuses. The legislator conscientiously returns the boodle when he finds he cannot "deliver the goods." The boss stands by his friends to his own hurt. The lobbying lawyer is faithful to his client. The corrupting corporation president is loyal to his stockholders. The boughten editor never quite overcomes his craft instinct to print "all the news there is."

In a word, the big and formidable sinners are gray of soul, but not black, so that chastisement according to their character rather than according to their deeds lets them off far too easily.—E. A. Ross in Atlantic.

FIRE THE BEST FILTER.

Boiling Water the Surest Way to Get Pure Water.

"All this talk about the need of filters, about people dying for lack of filtered water, amuses me," said a chemist. "For filtered water isn't necessarily pure water. Boiled water is a hundred times better.

"A filter, you see, does not free water from things dissolved in it, but only from things floating in it. For instance, if you mix a quart of whisky in a gallon of water and then filter the mixture it will come out colorless, the floating color particles having been left behind, but this colorless fluid will be quite as capable of intoxicating you now as it was before, for none of its dissolved alcohol will have disappeared.

"So with water that is polluted with sewage. All the undissolved portions of the sewage are removed by filtration and the water is left clear, tasteless and colorless, but the dissolved sewage is still present and in it may lurk billions of typhoid germs.

"Let those who complain about the lack of filters just turn in and boil their water. A cent's worth of fire will purify a gallon of water better than a $10,000,000 plant could do it."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Curious Seasickness.

"Seasickness is a curious trouble," says a physician. "It is probably due to the disturbance caused by the motion of the ship to the little organs that govern the sense of equilibrium. In the inner ear are three little semicircular canals. In movement in any plane the fluid in these canals disturbs and telegraphs the sensation to the brain, which is then able to control the balance of the whole. By the motion of a ship this delicate apparatus of the canal system is, it is suggested, thrown out of gear and wildly telegraphs wrong messages to the brain. And that portion of the brain is intimately connected with the nerve that controls the happenings in the region whence the trouble arises. The whole system, in brief, is short circuited."

Artificial Halos or "Sun Dogs."

An experiment which illustrates in a very curious manner the actual philosophy of the formation of halos or "sundogs" is performed as follows: Take a solution of alum and spread a few drops of it over a pane of glass. It will readily crystallize in small, flat octohedrons, scarcely visible to the eye. When this pane of prepared glass is held between the observer and the sun or even a candle (with eyes very close to the smooth side of the glass) there will be seen three different but distinct and beautiful halos, each at a different distance from the luminous body.

Rio de Janeiro English.

A firm in Rio de Janeiro recently sent out the following advertisement about olive oil: "Our olives oils have garantized of fitts quality. Diligently fabricated and filitrated. The consumer will find with them the good taste and perfect preservation. For to escape to any counterfeit is necessary to requiere on any hoties this contremarc deposed conformably to the law. The corks and the boxes bare all marked with the fire."

His Part.

In the English "Cap and Gown" is told the following story of Oxford life. It is called "Hauled by the Dean." The dean, who had rebuked Mr. Brown for having assisted at the ducking of a fellow student, asks the offender, "What part did you take in this disgraceful affair?" and Mr. Brown replies meekly, "The left leg, sir."

A Facetious Convict.

"This confinement," said the long faced prison visitor, "must distress you greatly." "Yes," replied the facetious convict, "I find the prison bars grating." "Ah, life to you is a failure." "Yes. It's nothing but a cell."

No Chance to Grow.

The Record

By MARGARET MUZZEY

Copyright, 1906, by P C Eastment

The midsummer golf tournament was about to begin at the Maston Country club A handsome cup had been given to the president of the club to be played for by all the members, and a crescent pin set with pearls was put up especially for the ladies by "Millionaire Miller," a rich old bachelor

Tom Price, aged sixteen, had declined to enter for the tournament. He stood no chance of winning without a big handicap and despised that sort of victory. If he were able to play scratch like Mr Sloan—but that contingency was too far in the future to be considered. So, holding aloof from competition, Tom felt entitled to indulge in disinterested criticism. Joe Smith, instructor for the club, was his chosen confidant.

"Mr—Mr Sloan ought to get the He—he has bo-bogled the course twice," stuttered Tom.

"He is a crackerjack," said Joe

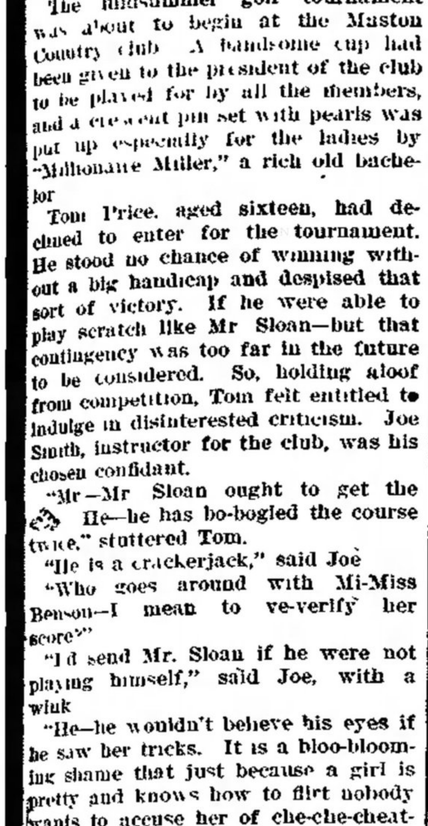
"Who goes around with Mi-Miss Benson—I mean to ve-verify her score?"

"I'd send Mr. Sloan if he were not playing himself," said Joe, with a wink

"He—he wouldn't believe his eyes if he saw her tricks. It is a bloo-blooming shame that just because a girl is pretty and knows how to flirt nobody wants to accuse her of che-che-cheating"

"You are catching cold, my boy," said Sloan, coming up behind him. "What is this mysterious conversation between you and Joe?"

"We were discus-cus-cussing one of the players in the tournament," said



THEY WERE BOTH HUSTLED INTO THE BROOK

Tom and after Sloan made a practice drive to the edge of the green. It is awful to think of a man who can do that being mashed on a gal who is'n't square"

"Round gals are prettier," said Joe

"It is no joke Something ought to be—be done Listen Why not send the curate around with her? He would not care li-lie about her score"

"The very thing'" Joe exclaimed.

The clubhouse piazza was crowded with guests to see the players in the tournament drive The "game with no age limit" included child rising against parent and grandchild against grandparent

The first to drive was Millionaire Miller He took plenty of time to arrange his knees, shoulders, elbows, wrists hands and fingers, gave his body a mighty twist and, as if boring for oil with the toes of his right foot, swung his club hissing through the air The spectators were breathless Shading his eye with one hand, Miller gazed eagerly forward

"I didn't follow through," he said excitedly "Where did it go?"

"I see it, sir," said the caddy surreptitiously picking up the ball a foot from the tee to find it 175 yards away He understood his business He was Miller's favorite caddy.

Pretty Mary Benson came next, looking the picture of innocent girlhood in white linen, the pulled up sleeves showing her plump arms below the elbow Mr Morse, the earnest little curate was delighted to keep her score and followed along, talking eagerly in his high pitched voice

Tom had brought his huge concert hall graphophone to the clubhouse and set it up in one corner of the parlor to play band music for an impromptu dance in the evening, and he came out on to the piazza just as Mary Benson was about to drive, then he cut across the links on a run and when she and Morse reached the third tee was, to all human appearance, looking for a lost ball some distance off the course.

"Third" was a bad place to drive from, with the brook at the bottom of a sharp incline not fifty yards ahead. And Mary sent her ball—where? The caddy looked in the long grass at one side and the curate, who admired her beauty, and Tom, who did not admire her at all, looked at Mary She poked among the stones by the brook with her driver for a minute, then, glancing at Morse, who was apparently adding the score, but really watching her from the corner of his eye, she stooped over, and a ball emerged from the puff above her left elbow.

"Here it is," she called, and, sure enough, there it was on a little flat stone

"An easy lie," thought Tom, "in two senses."

At that moment Mr. Morse had a surprising accident He started toward Mary, stumbled at the top of the bank and, unable to stop himself, ran straight into her with such force that they were both hustled into the brook up to their knees and were spattered with muddy water to the tops of their heads. Tom rolled over behind the bushes in an ecstasy of delight

"By—by jingo! That parson will be an ar-ar-archdeacon yet," he said.

Half an hour later Tom climbed in at the rear window of the clubhouse parlor He had composed some verses that he meant to record in his graphophone and spring on the company later. He adjusted the blank cylinder, recorder and small horn and was about to repeat them when in walked the Rev Mr. Morse looking like an evolution from a rummage sale in garments hastily snatched from various lockers He laughed ruefully.

"I suppose you saw what happened?" he said.

"Wouldn't have missed it for a di-diamond sunburst"

"You did not see anything peculiar, of course, except the accident?" asked Morse anxiously.

"One accident—two de-designs," said Tom promptly

The curate groaned.

"I simply had to throw her out of the game some way. I could not countenance her score and had not the courage to expose her deceit before so many people."

"It was grand," said Tom. "If she's the sh-sh"—

"She certainly is sly," interrupted the curate.

"slightest good she knew she was li-li"—

"The same as lying," put in the curate

"likely to get caught," finished Tom

"I trust you, my boy," said Morse, laying his hand on Tom's shoulder, "but it occurred to me you might tell what you saw to your favorite, Mr Sloan"

"I shan't say a word, but he ought to know He might marry her and fi-fi-find out afterward"

"She will never marry him," said Morse

"He—he thinks she will," said Tom

"I started to tease her about him, and she made fun of him—imitated his slow way of speaking. A girl may disclaim or protest about a man she really cares for, but ridicule—never! Besides, she gave me to understand she is engaged to Mr Miller. Here comes Sloan I do not wish to meet him just now." And the curate escaped from the window.

The handsome young athlete found Tom fussing over his graphophone, taking off the small horn and putting on the big "morning glory"

"Who won the ladies' pin?" he asked

"Your grandmother,' said Sloan, laughing

"My wh-wh-what?"

"She had a handicap of forty five on the nine holes and came out ahead of Miss Brown, the English girl, who played the whole course in forty five"

The crowd on the piazza was cheering and ling for Sloan to present him with the cup which he had won

"Bring me a drink, Tom, will you? I am choking with thirst and must go outside a minute," said Sloan, throwing himself on the divan

"That's right—li-li lie down" said Tom "You will need to" And, giving the graphophone a final touch that started it going he left the room

The blank cylinder intended for Tom's verses had recorded his conversation with the curate, and every word was reproduced for Sloan's benefit

When Tom returned the room was empty. Sloan had avoided them all, cutting across the fields to town, and neither Tom nor any of his fellow golfers saw him again until he returned from Europe a year later after Miss Benson was married to Millionaire Miller

Dialects of England.

The dialects of England are so various that grammatical eccentricities are commoner even than among the mixed peoples of the United States An English paper has been printing some choice examples. In Somersetshire a party of masons are at work One of their number is idling The foreman appears

Joe (warningly)—Hi, Ben, there he gaffer eyin' ee'

Ben—Aye, I eyed ee eye I.

An example from Punch, but true as to dialectic peculiarities, is recalled It is the reply of a farmer to a former vicar of his parish, who sympathized with him on the fact that his three elderly daughters were not married "You zee, sur," he said, "when they would ha' they, they wouldn't ha' they Now they would ha' they, they won't ha' they."

A Curious Epitaph.

One frequently comes across curious epitaphs, but we have never before heard of that useful and necessary kitchen requisite, the "dripping pan," figuring upon a tombstone. The following curious lines, however, are to be found in Woodditton churchyard, near Newmarket, and let into the head of the stone is a dripping pan:

To the Memory of William Simonds, who died March 1, 1753 Aged eighty years
Here lies my corpse who was the man
That loved a sop in dripping pan
But now believe me I am dead
See here the pan stands at my head
Still for sop to the last I cried
But could not eat and so I died
My neighbors they perhaps may laugh
Now they do read my epitaph

REACH THE SPOT.

To cure an aching back,
The pains of rheumatism,
The tired-out feelings,
You must reach the spot—get at the cause.
In most cases 'tis the kidneys.
Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys.

Charles Bierbach, stone contractor, living at 2625 Chestnut St., Erie, Pa., says: "For two years I had kidney trouble, and there was such a severe pain through my loins and limbs that I could not stoop or straighten up without great pain, had difficulty in getting about and was unable to rest at night, arising in the morning, tired and worn out. The kidney secretions were irregular and deposited a heavy sediment. Doctors treated me for rheumatism, but failed to help me. I lost all confidence in medicine, but Doan's Kidney Pills relieved me so quickly and so thoroughly that I gladly made a statement to that effect for publication. This was in 1898, and during the six years which have elapsed I have never known Doan's Kidney Pills to fail."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Bierbach will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co, Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price, 50 cents per box.

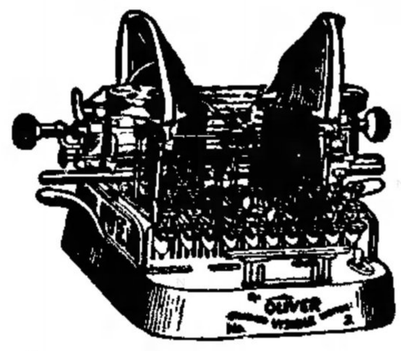
THIS TYPEWRITER
DELIVERS THE GOODS

It's the Oliver—the Standard Visible Writer.

The Oliver Typewriter is just like an athlete stripped for a race.



It is free from unnecessary multiplicity of wires and springs

No net work of flimsy keys to get tied into hard knots

The nimble fingered stenographer can put talk into type with this machine just as rapidly as she takes your dictation.

For no matter how swiftly she writes, she can see just what she's doing

The keyboard is so wonderfully responsive to the touch of the finger tips that speed comes without effort.

The factors that make for speed are its visible writing, its light, elastic key-touch, and it's all 'round simplicity. It has the fewest possible wearing points, and it prints with a downward stroke.

The OLIVER Typewriter

THE STANDARD VISIBLE WRITER

is a flawless piece of mechanism, combining the strength of tested steel with the perfect adjustment of the works of a watch. You can use an Oliver a life time and the type will not lose alignment

It never suffers from nervous prostration; requires only a little oil and plenty of exercise to keep it at the highest point of efficiency.

The hum of Oliver Typewriters is heard in the most progressive business houses in the land Sales increasing at a phenomenal rate. Get acquainted with the Oliver! Write for the Oliver book—we send it free with our compliments.

BOTH WELL INFORMED.

An Interchange of Compliments Between Grant and Lee.

Toward the end of the war between the states the value of a well organized scout service came to be fully appreciated by the leaders of both armies. Perhaps no commanders of modern times were better served in this respect than General Grant and General Lee. Both were kept informed daily as to nearly everything that went on within the enemy's lines.

General Gordon relates that one morning toward the end of the long contest, when the Confederates, officers and men alike, were reduced to unheard of straits for food, a captain from the Union headquarters went, under a flag of truce, with a communication to General Lee concerning the exchange of prisoners.

"General Lee," said the captain, with a smile, after delivering his message, "General Grant sends you his personal compliments and bids me assure you that he knows exactly what you had for breakfast this morning."

"General Grant must be misinformed as to this," replied General Lee, surveying the message bearer with a sad smile. "General Grant is a generous man, and if he had known with what a breakfast I had to content myself he would certainly have sent me half of his. But give him my compliments," he continued, with a sudden twinkle, "and say that although I do not know as to his breakfast I have full particulars concerning his dinner last night."—Youth's Companion.

AN EVENT THAT MEANS MUCH TO PIANO BUYERS

The Special Sale of W. F. Frederick Presents an Unusual Opportunity

REMARKABLE BARGAINS IN HIGH GRADE PIANOS

Warerooms 544 Donner Ave., Next Door to Grand Hotel

The mammoth piano concern of W. F. Frederick opened warerooms in Monessen this morning by inaugurating a special sale that is destined to be a record breaker in these parts.

A very large stock of high grade pianos has been placed on exhibition in the warerooms at 544 Donner avenue, next door to Grand Hotel and marked to be sold at prices far below anything quoted here before for high grade instruments.

Among the stock are such celebrated makes as the Strich & Zeidler, Marshall & Wendell, Lakeside, Brewster, Lester, Armstrong, Sherwood and many others in plain and fancy cases and all fancy woods.

It is a well known fact that W. F. Frederick now has become one of the most important factors of the piano industry in this country. Operating and controlling over 60 stores and agencies, his purchasing power is acknowledge to be far superior to that of any other concern. This can be easily understood when you take into consideration that he buys and sells thousands of pianos annually. His wholesale business alone consuming more pianos than 3 factories can produce.

One can hear of so-called piano bargains every day in the week but it rarely if ever occurs that you can have a selection from the world's best makes at prices below factory cost.

The reason why this sale is being run is primarily to establish a permanent business connection in and around Monessen. The special sale prices are made without considering profit and are based upon some special concession made by the manufacturers in order to keep their factories running full time during the summer months.

The saving to each purchaser is anywhere from $125 to $200 and good serviceable upright pianos can be bought for under $200, such as you would usually have to pay $350 for.

It is not necessary that you should pay cash, as easy terms of payment can be arranged upon any of these instruments. The special sale is to only last a very few days, and those who have any desire to own a fine instrument will do well to make an early selection.

The store will be kept open evenings during sale.

SLEEP HABITS OF ANIMALS.

The Monkey Never Loses Its Instinct of Fear.

"When a monkey sleeps he picks out the highest perch he can find," said an animal trainer. "When the only home of the monkey was a forest, he lived always in deadly fear of the lion. A live monkey is the choicest morsel on the menu of the king of beasts. Although the monkey is wise and knows that in a zoo the lions are securely caged, the fear is born in him and he sleeps on the high perch.

"The lioness, when free from family cares, is prone to lie on its back with its legs stretched up straight in the air and paws pendent. The lion, when the excitement of the day is gone, stretches itself out flatly on its side with paws turned in and twitches and throbs during its slumber a good deal like a dog. Gorillas and chimpanzees sleep with their hands over their heads. Bears, which have no fear, sleep in any position. The same is true of wolves.

"Animals of a cunning or cowardly nature, however, are always on the alert, even when asleep. A seal sleeps like a human being. Once in awhile a seal will sit up with its head on its chest, asleep in the water. Its ears are kept under so that he may hear the approach of an enemy, sound traveling with great distinctness under water."

Scientific Language.

"No wonder," said the poet, "that no one cares to read the works of Haeckel, Darwin, Spencer, Huxley and so on. These men have much to say, but they don't know how to say it. They have never taken the time to learn to write." He drew his notebook from his pocket. "When Professor Thompson," he resumed, "hit on a new variety of cathode rays, he announced his discovery in these terms: 'Of an orthocathodic character, a deflectable fluorescifient excitant; of a paracathodic character, a deflectable fluorescifient nonexcitant of a dicathodic character, a nondeflectable fluorescifient nonexcitant; of an isocathodic character, a deflectable nonfluorescifient nonexcitant'—and so on for forty or fifty pages."

Badly Placed.

Lawley (expert shorthand reporter) I say, James, the boy from the newspaper office has called for the report of that lecture. Is it finished?

James (a novice)—All but a short sentence in the middle of it, and I can't for the life of me make out from my notes what it is.

Lawley—Oh, just put in "great applause" and let it go.

James acts on the suggestion, and the lecture is sent for publication with the doctored part reading "Friends, I will detain you but a few moments longer." (Great applause.)—London Express.

Ignorance Might Have Been Bliss.

"A lady on a sultry summer afternoon called on some friends," said a lecturer. "The talk buzzed along briskly, fans waved and the daughter of the house kept twitching uncomfortably, frowning and making little smothered exclamations of annoyance. Finally with an impatient sigh she rose and left the room.

"'Your daughter,' said the visitor, 'seems to be suffering from the heat.'

"'No,' said the hostess. 'She is just back home from college, and she is suffering from the family grammar.'"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Wise Man.

"I'll take that," said the man, indicating a silver mounted hand glass, "and I want you to engrave on it 'From J. J. B. to Phyllis.'"

"Very well," replied the salesman, "we'll put it on the back here"—

"Oh, no. Put it around the edge on the front. I want her to see it."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Pretty Near Right.

Markley—Wiseman told me today that I'd never get back that ten spot I loaned you, Grafton. He did? Markley—Yes. Grafton, Well, if it wasn't so expensive I'd make him out a liar right now.—Philadelphia Press.

I know of nothing sublime which is not some modification of power.—Burke.
